

CHINA AUSTRALIA JOURNALIST EXCHANGE

Applications now open for 2019 program

Six Australian journalists will have the opportunity to gain first-hand experience of the vital relationship between China and Australia, with a special focus on environmental issues.

Participants will see developments in clean energy technology, including international collaboration to reduce carbon emissions. They will also explore the fallout from US-China trade tensions and the progress of China's multi-billion-dollar Belt and Road initiative.

The program will run from 11 to 19 November, with visits to Beijing, Shanghai and Qingdao.

Applications are invited from all media including early to mid-career journalists. Applicants are required to provide supporting references and show how they would benefit from the program.

The program is a joint initiative of the Asia Pacific Journalism Centre and the All-China Journalists Association. This year, support is being provided by the Melbourne Press Club, and funding by the Australian Embassy in Beijing.
